Perú

NAME: República del Perú / Piruw (Quechua) / Piruw (Aymara) NAME ETYMOLOGY: Popular etymology: "piru" in Quechua jeans "What?"; The conquistadors said, in Spanish, "What's the name of this place?", and the local Incas replied "Piru?"; Scholarly etymology: "birú", name of chieftan in Panamá who said gold was to be found farther south of Panamá.

POPULATION: 27,900,000 (1997); 28,700,000 (2007); 30,400,000 (2014) ETHNIC GROUPS: Quechua and Aymará (45%); Mestizo (37%); white (15%); Asian

(2%); black (1%) Lima (8,900,000–2014)

Principal cities: Arequipa (770,200); Callao (port, 442,000); Trujillo (644,000); Iquitos

(350,000)

LANGUAGES: Quechua and Spanish (both official); Aymará (unofficial) RELIGION: Roman Catholic (81%); Inca (9%); Protestant (5%)

INDEPENDENCE DAY July 28, 1821 (from Spain) LIFE EXPECTANCY: Men (68); women (72)

LITERACY: 88%

CAPITAL:

GOVERNMENT: Democratic republic MILITARY: 115,000 active troops

ECONOMY: fishing, cocaine, mining, cotton, sugar

MONEY: Nuevo sol (3.4 = $1.00 US; 2006)

GEOGRAPHY: Pacific coast; arid coastal stip; Andes = 27% of land; eastern slopes into Amazon basin (50% of country)

FACT: Perú is the world's largest coca leaf producer.

INTERNET CODE: .pe

KILLED BY SENDERO LUMINOSO (1980-97): 20,000

HISTORY:

5000 BCE Evidence of first human settlements in Perú: cultivation of beans, cotton, gourds; use of weapons; construction of middens

4000-400 BCE Titicaca culture around Lake Titicaca in Bolivia and SE Perú. 3200 BCE People on Perú's north coast begin large-scale settlements.

1800-400 BCE Chavín culture

1800 BCE -1400 Many pre-Inca Andean civilizations. 400 BCE-700 CE Tiahuanaco (or: Tiwanaku) culture.

400 BCE-800 CE Nazca culture.

100 BCE – 800 CE Mochica culture (the kingdom of Moche).

800 - 1100 Huari culture.

1100 – 1400 Cajamarca, Chimu, and Ica cultures.

Manco Cápac organizes the kernel of Inca culture.

1400 (ca.) Kingdom of Chancas (west of Cuzco), with huge army, began war on small group of Incas, ruled by old king Viracocha Inca; this king's son, Cusi Yupanqui, led the Inca defense and surprisingly, against the odds, won the war. Cusi Yupanqui overthrew his father and changed his name to Pachacuti ("earth shaker": "he against the odds, won the war. Cusi Yupanqui overthrew his father and changed his name to Pachacuti ("earth shaker"; "he who turns the world upside down"). Pachacuti (1438-1471) restructured the Inca tribe, rebuilt Cuzco with the great Inca stones as the center of his domain, which he expanded significantly. Pachacuti named his empire Tawantinsuyu ("four united parts") with Cuzco at the center of the four regions: Chinchaysuyu, Cuntisuyu, Collasuyu, and Antisuyu.

1438 – 1533 Domination by Incas with capital at Kuskum (El Cuzco). Viracocha and his son Túpac Inca Yupanqui (1471-1493).

1450 Machu Picchu constructed by Inca emperor Pachacuti as private retreat or estate.

1471 Túpac Inca's son, Huayna Cápac (1464-1527) expanded the empire to its greatest size and power. The empire covered 1,400 miles of the Pacific coast and into the Andes.

1513 Vasco Núñez de Balboa and Francisco Pizarro cross the Isthmus of Panama, thus "discovering" the Pacific Ocean for Spain. Francisco Pizarro and his brothers arrived on the island of Hispaniola in 1502.

The future Inca emperor Manco Inca is born.

1519-1521 Francisco Pizarro is involved in the conquest of the Aztecs under Hernán Cortés.

1524-1525 Francisco Pizarro's first voyage south from Panamá along the Colombia coast was a failure.

1526-1527 Pizarro makes second voyage south from Panamá, this time making his first contact with the northern end of the Inca empire. Francisco's brothers Hernando, Juan, and Gonzalo accompany Francisco, who was the oldest (and a half-) brother. Hernando de Soto (Florida conquistador), 62 horses, black slaves, 12 notaries, one Dominican friar, a number of Moorish women slaves, some merchants, and some native Nicaraguan slaves were in Pizarro's party of discovery and conquest.

1527	Huayna Cápac died of smallpox, which began spreading like a plague throughout the Americas when the Spaniards introduced it unintentionally in 1494. Huayna Cápac's paranoid partyhappy son Huáscar was crowned Inca emperor in Cuzco, but Huayna Cápac's serious son Atahualpa (by another mother) and his faction opposed his half-brother Huayna Cápac.
1527-1531	Civil war between factions led by the warring half-brothers Huayna Cápac and Atahualpa. The war ended in a battle near Cuzco in which Huayna Cápac was defeated, captured, and slaughtered almost all of Huayna Cápac's wives and family.
1532-1533	Incas conquered by Francisco Pizarro (1475-1541) with 168 conquistadores on Pizarro's third voyage south from Panamá.
1533	Pizarro captures Atahualpa in Cajamarca, where Pizarro slaughters most of the Incas' nobility and some of the Incas' generals. For the dramatic, first-hand description of the massacre at Cajamarca, see the online version of the "Letter from Hernando Pizarro to the Royal Audience of Santo Domingo, in Reports on the Discovery of Peru , Clements R. Markham, tr. and ed. (London: Hakluyt Society, 1872), pp. 113-127, at this URL: http://www.shsu.edu/~his_ncp/Pizarro.html .
1533	Atahuallpa is executed and Cuzco is conquered. Pizarro makes Manco Inca the puppet emperor.
1533-1541	Pizarro distributes encomiendas.
1535	Lima founded by Francisco Pizarro.
1536	Manco Cápac leads a failed Inca rebellion against Spanish. Gonzalo Pizarro steals Manco Inca's wife, Cura Ocllo. Manco Inca starts a rebellion; he lays siege to Cuzco. Juan Pizarro is killed in the fighting. Another Inca general, Quizo Yupanqui, attacks Lima.
1537	Diego de Almagro returns from Chile and conquers Cuzco from Incas. The Spaniards capture Manco Inca's son, while Manco escapes and flees to Vilcabamba, which he creates as the new Inca capital.
1538	Pizarro defeats Almagro and has Almagro executed.
1539	Gonzalo Pizarro captures Vilcabamba. Manco Inca escapes, while Francisco Pizarro executes Manco's wife.
1539-1616	Inca Garcilaso de la Vega, son of Inca princess and conquistador; historian.
1541	Pizarro assassinated by his conquistadors who favored Almagro.
1542	Name of Virreinato del Perú given to the region.
1544	The Spaniards murder Manco Inca; meanwhile Gonzalo Pizarro rebels against Spain and king Carlos V; in 1548 Gonzalo Pizarro is captured and executed as a traitor.
1551	The University of San Marcos (now the Universidad Nacional Mayor de San Marcos), one of Perú's two most prestigious universities, was founded in Lima. It is known as the "dean" of Latin American universities, because it was founded four months before the University of Mexico. The Peruvian university that is also one of the othere top two universities in the country is the Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú, was founded in Lima in 1917. The Peru's great late twentieth and twenty-first century novelist and writer, winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature, graduate from San Marcos.
1555	Viceroyalty of El Perú actually begun; Andrés Hurtado de Mendoza, first viceroy
1557-1560	The new Inca emperor, Sayri-Tupac leaves Vilcabamba and relocates his capital near Cuzco.

1560-1571	Titu Cusi becomes the new Inca emperor, and he locates his capital again in
1300-1371	Vilcabamba, 100 miles east of Machu Picchu.
1571	Tupac Amaru Inca is the last emperor of Incas.
1572	The Viceroy of Peru, Francisco Toledo, declares war on Tupac Ameru;
	Vilcabamba is destroyed, and Tupac Amaru is beheaded at Cuzco.
1588	Bartolomé Álvarez, a Dominican padre doctrinario (priest who taught Catholic dogma and the Catachism), in the southern Peruvian diocese of Charcas, wrote a treatise to king Felipe II of Spain entitled De las costumbre y conversación de los indios del Perú; Memorial a Felipe II (edited in Madrid in 1998 by Ediciones Polifemo). In this book Álvarez says that the native Peruvians were using their second language, Spanish, not to teach Catholicism but rather to conduct legal cases against the Crown. 1
1604	El Inca Garcilaso de la Vega publishes: Comentarios reales .
1652-1697	Juan del Valle Caviedes, satyric poet; his Diente del Parnaso was published
1032-1097	posthumously.
1740	Nueva Granada (Colombia and Venezuela) separated from Viceroyalty of Perú.
1742-1780	Tupac Amaru (José Gabriel Condorcanqui titled Marqués de Oropesa), descendant of Incan Tupac Amaru executed in 1571), captured and executed in 1780 by colonial royalist army.
1776	Viceroyalty of La Plata (Argentina) separated from Perú
1780	Tupac Amaru II leads unsuccessful indigenous rebellion.
1820	José de San Martín (Argentinian patriot military hero), moves his forces north from Chile with aid from Lord Cochrane's English navy. San Martín delays march on Lima because Peruvian criollos are not ready to revolt against Spain; Lima is primary stronghold of Spanish colonial power and culture.
1821	July 28: José de San Martín declares independence of Perú.
	Spanish viceroy moves all royalist forces to northern Perú.
	San Martín needs help from Simón Bolívar.
	Cochrane's navy deserts and San Martín's forces are unruly.
	Country named "República del Perú"
1822	San Martín meets Bolívar in Guayaquil, Ecuador.
	San Martín withdraws humbly leaving field to Bolívar; San Martín's wife
1000 1006	dies; he returns to Europe never returning to South America.
1822-1826	Bolívar takes over independence war seeing need to destroy last royalist forces; Bolívar rules Perú as absolute dictador.
1824	Bolívar defeates royalist forces in battle of Junín
1024	(December 9, 1824) Bolívar's forces win final battle against royalists at Ayacucho, thus ending Spanish colonial presence in mainland American continent.
1825	Bolívar goes to Cuzco and Upper Perú (Lake Titicaca, Potosí, Bolivia) giving
	Bolivia independence and making it a separate republic under Sucre, Bolivia's first president; Bolívar returns to Lima.
1833-1919	Ricardo Palma, writer of local color, especially Tradiciones peruanas
1872-1876	Manuel Prado, first civilian president
1879-1883	War of the Pacific between Perú and Chile
1892-1938	César Vallejo, poet:
1895-1930	José Carlos Mariátegui, leftist philosopher, journalist, and theorist.
1911-1969	José María Arguedas, magical realist novelist.

¹ John Charles, Allies at Odds; the Andean Church and Its Indigenous Agents, 1583-1671. Albuquerque, New Mexico: University of New Mexico Press, 2010.

1922 Trilce, by César Vallejo, vanguardist poetry 1923 APRA (Alianza Popular Revolucionaria Americana) created by Víctor Raúl Haya de la Torre 1925-1930 Publication of Amauta by Vallejo and Maríategui: vanguardist and Marxist thought and literature 1936-1939 Gen. Oscar Benavides, dictator 1936-present Mario Vargas Llosa, novelist of Generación del Boom and magical realism 1939 Poemas humanos, poems published by César Vallejo Gen. Manuel Odría, dictator 1962 La ciudad y los perros, by Vargas Llosa, initiates Perú in Generación del 1963 Fernando Belaúnde Terry, president for Acción Popular party 1968 Military coup: Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968- 80) 1971 Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas 1975 Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez 1980 Elections: Belaúnde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins 1985 Alan García, elected president for APRA 1987 Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the 1988 banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and 1980 installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's 1980 terrorism 1990 Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced 1991 to lici in prison. 1992 The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling; Q'osq'o, thus 1993 intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio 1995 Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia 1996 de Lengua in Spain 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in 1997 the city of Quzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling; Q'osq'o, thus 1998 intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1999 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio 1996 Mi	1911	Hiram Bingham (Yale University professor) "discovers" Machu Picchu, which he thought at first was actually Vilcabamba.
APRA (Alianza Popular Revolucionaria Americana) created by Víctor Raúl Haya de la Torre 1925-1930 Publication of Amauta by Vallejo and Maríategui: vanguardist and Marxist thought and literature Gen. Oscar Benavides, dictator Mario Vargas Llosa, novelist of Generación del Boom and magical realism Poemas humanos, poems published by César Vallejo Gen. Manuel Odria, dictator La ciudad y los perros, by Vargas Llosa, initiates Perú in Generación del Boom Fernando Belaúnde Terry, president for Acción Popular party Military coup; Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968- 80) 1971 Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez Elections: Belaúnde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins Alan García, elected president for APRA Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori relected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori relected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's ho	1922
Haya de la Torre Publication of Amauta by Vallejo and Maríategui: vanguardist and Marxist thought and literature Gen. Oscar Benavides, dictator Mario Vargas Llosa, novelist of Generación del Boom and magical realism Poemas humanos, poems published by César Vallejo Gen. Manuel Odría, dictator La ciudad y los perros, by Vargas Llosa, initiates Perú in Generación del Boom Fernando Belaúnde Terry, president for Acción Popular party Military coup; Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968-80) Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez Elections: Belaúnde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins Alan García, elected president for APRA Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Pagus Losa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fiel to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradite
Publication of Amanta by Vallejo and Maríategui: vanguardist and Marxist thought and literature Gen. Oscar Benavides, dictator Mario Vargas Llosa, novelist of Generación del Boom and magical realism Poemas humanos, poems published by César Vallejo Gen. Manuel Odria, dictator La ciudad y los perros, by Vargas Llosa, initiates Perú in Generación del Boom Fernando Belaúnde Terry, president for Acción Popular party Military coup; Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968-80) 1971 Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez Elections: Belaínde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins Alan García, elected president for APRA Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected 1996 Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when h	1923
Mario Vargas Llosa, novelist of Generación del Boom and magical realism Poemas humanos, poems published by César Vallejo Gen. Manuel Odría, dictator 1962 La ciudad y los perros, by Vargas Llosa, initiates Perú in Generación del Boom 1963 Fernando Belaúnde Terry, president for Acción Popular party 1968 Military coup; Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968-80) 1971 Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas 1975 Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez 1980 Elections: Belaúnde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins 1985 Alan García, elected president for APRA 1987 Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori reelected 1996 Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human right	1925-1930	Publication of Amauta by Vallejo and Maríategui: vanguardist and Marxist
1939	1936-1939	Gen. Oscar Benavides, dictator
1939	1936-present	Mario Vargas Llosa, novelist of Generación del Boom and magical realism
1948-1956 1962 La ciudad y los perros, by Vargas Llosa, initiates Perú in Generación del Boom 1963 Fernando Belaúnde Terry, president for Acción Popular party 1968 Military coup; Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968-80) 1971 Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas 1975 Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez Elections: Belaúnde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins 1985 Alan García, elected president for APRA 1987 Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori reelected 1996 Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife. Eliane Karp.
Boom Fernando Belaúnde Terry, president for Acción Popular party 1968 Military coup; Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968-80) 1971 Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas 1975 Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez 1980 Elections: Belaúnde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins 1985 Alan García, elected president for APRA 1987 Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaign	1948-1956
Military coup; Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968-80) 1971 Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez Elections: Belaúnde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins Alan García, elected president for APRA 1987 Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori reelected 1996 Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president	1962
Military coup; Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968-80) 1971 Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez Elections: Belaúnde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins Alan García, elected president for APRA 1987 Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori reelected 1996 Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president	1963	Fernando Belaúnde Terry, president for Acción Popular party
1975 Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez Elections: Belaúnde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins 1985 Alan García, elected president for APRA 1987 Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori reelected 1996 Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president	1968	Military coup; Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado leads leftist military junta (1968-
Elections: Belaunde Terry president Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins Alan García, elected president for APRA Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president	1971	Gustavo Gutiérrez publishes: Teología de la liberación: perspectivas
Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins Alan García, elected president for APRA Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted him on many charges. He was entenced to 25 years in prison.	1975	Military coup against Velasco Alvarado by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez
1985 Alan García, elected president for APRA 1987 Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks 1990 Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori reelected 1996 Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	1980	Elections: Belaúnde Terry president
Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects		Guerrilla war by Sendero Luminoso begins
Mario Vargas Llosa leads civic resistance to APRA's plan to nationalize the banks Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	1985	Alan García, elected president for APRA
Presidential election campaign between Vargas Llosa and Alberto Fujimori; Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	1987
Fujimori wins, June, 1990 June: Fujimori dissolved congress, suspended most of constitution, and installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's terrorism Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	1990
Sept: Abimael Guzmán, leader of Sendero Luminoso, captured and sentenced to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects		installed press censorship, all in the name of fighting Sendero Luminoso's to life in prison. The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects
The city of Cuzco (Cusco), adopts as its official spelling: Q'osq'o, thus intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. 1994 Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain 1995 Fujimori reelected 1996 Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects intending to represent a more Quechuan spelling of the city's name. Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects		*
Vargas Llosa becomes Spanish citizen and wins Spain's prestigious Premio Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects
Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia de la Lengua in Spain Fujimori reelected Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	1994
1996 Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador 1997 March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success 2000 Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	1774	Miguel de Cervantes; also he becomes a member of the Real Academia
Dec: Tupac Amaro leftist revolutionaries (not Senderistas) took hostages in home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	1995 home of Japanese embassador March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects
March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in the home; general international praise for anti-terrorist success Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	1997	March: army frees hostages in embassador's house and kills all guerrillas in
refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	2000	Fujimori fled to Japan in 2000 to avoid arrest due to various
refused to accept his offer to resign the presidency; instead they impeached and convicted him on many charges. He was extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects		scandals and accusations of illegal actions. The Congress extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects extradited to Perú in 2007, when he was convicted for illegal arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects arrests; later he was convicted of human rights violations, killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects killings, kidnappings, death squads, murder, embezzlement. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects
He was sentenced to 25 years in prison. 2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects
2001 Alejandro Toledo Manrique elected president; the statue of Pizarro is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects is removed from the Plaza de Armas in Lima due to campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	2001 campaigning by his wife, Eliane Karp. 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects 2006 Alan García Pérez elected president 2007 Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects
Yale University agrees with the Peruvian government to return Inca objects	2006
, ,
		y

2011 June 6: runoff election for President between Ollanta Humala (Gana Perú Party) and Keiko Fujimori (Fuerza Party; daughter of Alberto Fujimori: see 1990 and 2000); Ollanta Humala won the runoff. For an eloquent essay by a Peruvian novelist in support of Humala, see the translation of:

=> "Perú: robar lo justo."

2011-2016 Ollanta Humala, president of the Republic of Perú. In political terms, Humala is center-left.

2016-2021 Pedro Pablo Kuzcynski Godard (b. 1938), centrist (or conservative-liberal) technocrat (economist), elected president, from the new Peruvian political party, Peruanos por el Kambio.

GOVERNMENT: Federal Republic with parliamentary democracy since 1980 when Fernando

Belaúnde Terry replaced military dictatorship (1968-80); president elected every five years; member of U.N., Nonaligned

Movement, and Group of Eight (S. American countries)

PRESIDENT: Alan García (until 2011)

Political figures:

Alán García Pérez, leader of APRA (Alianza Popular Revolucionaria Americana) born 1948, serving since 1985 as APRA leader

Guillermo Larco Cox

Ilda Urízar

Mercedes Cabanillas

Gustavo Saberbein

José Barsallo Burga

Abel Salinas

Luis Heysen

MAJOR INTELLECTUALS:

Poetry:

Carlos Germán Belli (contemporary)

César Vallejo (1888-1938), Vanguardism

 $Los\ heraldos\ negros\ (1922)$

Poemas humanos (1927)

España, aparta de mí este cáliz (1937)

Novel: José María Arguedas: Los ríos profundos (1962)

Novel and Essay:

Mario Vargas Llosa (born 1936)

La ciudad y los perros (1962-63)

La casa verde (1965)

Los cachorros (1967)

Historia de un deicidio (1971)

La tía Julia y el escribidor (1977)

Conversación en la Catedral (1969)

Pantaleón y las visitadoras (1973)

"Masacre en los Andes" (1983)

La guerra del fin del mundo (1983)

Historia de Mayta (1984)

¿Quién mató a Palomino Molero? (1986)

Elogio de la madrastra (1989)

El hablador (1988)

Contra viento y marea (1990)

Desafíos a la libertad (1994)

Cinema: Armando Robles Godoy: The Green Wall (1972)

Political essay: Víctor Haya de la Torre

Mariátegui

Liberation theology:

Sixto Severo

Gustavo Gutiérrez, Teología de la liberación: perspectivas

(1971)

POLITICAL SITUATION:

severe economic problems cocaine production and traffic guerrilla war waged since 1980 by Sendero Luminoso lead by Abimael Guzmán Gutiérrez (now in prison); this guerrilla war is contained